Features

528  Cells in Coxeter Groups
   Paul E. Gunnells
   Cells are subsets of Coxeter groups introduced as a tool in representation theory. Here, the author considers them as geometric objects in their own right, including their visualization.

536  Serge Lang 1927-2005
   Jay Jorgenson and Steven G. Krantz
   In this memorial article, the authors and others recall the life and interests, mathematical and nonmathematical, of a mathematician famous for both.

554  The Life and Works of Raoul Bott
   Loving W. Tu
   For this memorial article, the author updates his authorized mathematical biography of his distinguished subject.
